

BUNDLE

x MUSED

PURPOSE

BUNDLE'S AUDIENCE IS THE PEOPLE WHO END UP RUNNING EMPLOYEE GIFTING AT A COMPANY: PEOPLE AND HR LEADS, WORKPLACE AND OFFICE MANAGERS, AND AT SMALLER COMPANIES THE FOUNDER OR OPS PERSON WHO GOT HANDED IT. THEY CARE ABOUT MAKING EMPLOYEES FEEL APPRECIATED, BUT THEY'RE BUSY, GIFTING ISN'T THEIR WHOLE JOB, AND THEY'VE PROBABLY BEEN BURNED BY A CHEAP HOODIE OR A LATE DELIVERY. SO THE EXPLANATION SHOULD SPEAK TO THAT: LESS ABOUT WHAT BUNDLE DOES, MORE ABOUT WHAT IT TAKES OFF THEIR PLATE.

LOGO

MAIN LOGO

The Bundle logo uses one shared form: the "B" in the wordmark and the symbol are the same shape, making the name and mark feel like one family. Unplanned but welcome, the letter's flowing curve also carries a subtle Arabic-script feel, which we think suits the brand and gives it a distinctive, rooted character.

ISOTYPE

COLOR PALETTE

A friendly, bright palette that feels approachable for businesses, while still coming across as tech-forward and direct-to-consumer. Green leads as the primary color because it can do the work of black without feeling as dark or heavy. The wide range of colors creates a sense of personalization, with many combinations that work well together, while gradients and grain add visual interest and a modern feel.

A good gift says "we thought of you." A bad one says the opposite, and you're the one who sent it.

COLOR PALETTE

A slightly prettier and more feminine take than Direction 1, but fundamentally achieving the same goal. The palette is friendly, bright, and approachable for businesses, while still feeling tech-forward and direct-to-consumer. Green leads as the primary color because it can do the work of black without feeling as dark or heavy. The wide range of colors creates a sense of personalization, with many combinations that work well together, while gradients and grain add visual interest and a modern feel.
